NEWS SUMMARIC.

City Affairs. -A large temperance meeting was held last evening, at the Green Hill Presbyterian Church, under the auspices of the Young People's Association. The pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. Wiswell, presided, and on opening the meeting referred to the fact of the young men of his congregation taking hold of this work. No nooler effort could be made by them, apart from their endeavors to save souls, than to be entheir endeavors to save souls, than to be engaged in reclaiming the drunkard from his habit of imbloing the contents of the intoxicating bowl. He bid them Godspeed in this great and good work, and signified a willingness to co-operate with them in carrying forward this great reform. Mrs. Ann Gordon, who resided at No. 1326 Mott street, died vesterday afternoon, under circumstances which induced a belief that violence was the remote if not immediate cause. James Green and his wife, Susan, with her sister, Margaret Glacken, occupy a room in the house with Gordon, and the rent falling due last week, it was demanded by Gordon. Green said he was not able to pay at the time, which led to a quarrel, and finally, on Saturday night, to a fight between the men, in which the women took part. Mrs. Gordon became sick on Wednesday, and after the premature birth of a child grew worse and died, as stated. The Coroner was sent for yesterday afternoon to hold an inquest on the body, and James and Susan Green and Margaret Glacken were arrested and held to await the result of the investigation. Dr. Shapleigh made a postmortem examination last evening, and con-cluded that death was superinduced by hemorrhage caused by violence.

NEW-YORKISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent. NEW YORK, April 30, 1870.

Lucky Mr. Wilkes. That sweet young creature and gentlemanly journalist, Mr. George Wilkes, has, it is said, lately received from the Emperor of all the Russias (or, at least, some of them), the grand cross of the order of St. Stanislaus. This by way of recognition made by the Russian Government with respect to the Overland Railway to China and India by way of Russia. This honorary decoration is in the form of a Greek cross, and has an enamelled centre in which glows a golden monogram of St. Stanislaus' name.

Mr. Wilkes has encountered a good many crosses so far in life, but probably none more easy to bear than this.

The peculiar feature among the privileges conferred by it is that it entitles the holder to have all his male children educated at the military school of Russia at the expense of the Gov-

It will thus be seen that there is an exquisite propriety in this gift being conferred upon Mr. Wirkes, inasmuch as that gentleman is destitute of male children.

Mrs. Clymer Dietz is to make her first appearance in public this evening.

The event is worthy of notoriety, inasmuch as Mrs. Dietz is young and beautiful. You know what amateur performers usually are, and therefore I say nothing as yet in relation to her

The Sorosis has charge of the debut, and since every member of that august body "has as much in her as Anna Dickinson," of course a great deal is expected.

Upon the occasion of Mr. Fechter's first appearance in this city as "Claude Melnotte," the New York press was exceedingly well represented, all the principal newspapers sending a critic to "take charge" of him. At the conclusion of the fourth act, where all the dramatis personæ are wrought to a frenzy, he was recalled thrice-which proves that the majority of his audience was composed of spooneys.

His success here has been of a very singular character. The gossip of the green-room and the coulisses is as much divided upon him as that of the public and the editor's room.

You see he is perpetually putting f for v. In his love scenes he introduces so many "lofes" that you might think he was making bread instead of making love.

At the Grand Opera House they produce on the average one ballet troupe a week, with occasionally one over for Sundays. The Spanish Ballet Troupe (which has been mentioned once or twice not in total disconnection with the Khedive) is to appear positively on Monday night. The reason of the postponement was the difficulty in getting the names spelt right. I met Mr. Page, the business-manager, on the street yesterday afternoon. He did not tell me right out that that was the reason, but from an orthoepic analysis of the advertisements, I opine so. Anatomy for Ladies. Some months ago I mentioned a museum of feminine physiology that was to be opened upon Broadway for the especial behosf of

It is intended as a companion institution to the male anatomical museum.

A new invoice of fresh and beautiful skulls has just been received, also several charming tumors, and a collection of celebrated skeletons, and everything else, in fact, that can contribute to the amplification of the female mind and the promotion of lady-like manners.

Every House a Dispensary. A week or two ago I mentioned an idea which some of the newspapers here have pronounced chimerical, but which is seriously contemplated by a gentleman in this city who has devoted twenty years of his life to the study of electricity.

The idea does seem chimerical at the first blush, but, in fact, if his theories be correct, it is no more so than the connecting of two worlds with a wire, or of two oceans with a rall.

It consists in introducing electricity into every house in the city, and extending it in time over the Union, and, in short, over the entire civilized world, so that you can turn it on in an instant, like gas and water.

I have heard of Jersey lightning before-but this is a little different.

Dr. Chamberlin's theory is that electricity, properly applied, is a means of health, and that there is no reason why, in time, every house should not become a dispensary and every head of a household a physician.

By this means you turn on good spirits with a spigot and health abides in the touch of a

I observe that a good many papers are discussing the feasibility of the plan, which, if successful, will bring to its projector a mint of money.

Dr. Franklin did something with electricity. He may be said to have knocked it higher than a kite. His lineal descendant is only putting in its mouth the bit of the nineteenth century.

Dumb but Dazzling. One of the most remarkable private entertainments ever given in this city was celebrated last evening at a fashionable residence in West

Twenty-third street. The lady of the house moves among the innermost circles of good society, but she is deaf and dumb-was born so.

Upon this occasion her guests were all deaf and dumb-it was a deaf and dumb party. Some wind as to the nature of the entertainment had spread outside, and there was quite a small crowd on the pavement outside. The erowd observed decorum, however, and although many a mute passed up the steps and vanished within, there was no emeute without. ALI BABA.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

Mr. Thunder's Concert. Last evening a large audience was drawn together at Musical Fund Hall by Mr. Thunder's concert, the programme for which embraced but two selections-Beethoven's quintette for plano and wind instruments (opus 16) and Rossini's posthumous work, the Messe Solennelle. The former was given in admirable style and all its delicate points brought out fully. But the main attraction of the evening was the Messe Solennelle, which, as a whole, was a novelty to the Philadelphia public, the only portion of it that had ever before been given in this city being the Crucifixus solo, which was sung by Miss Kellogg at the Academy of Music last year. Rossini composed his Messe Solennelle at Passy in 1863, and its first performance was on March 13, 1864, in the salon of the Count Pillet-Will, a prominent and cultivated Parisian banker, before an audience of about two hundred and fifty invited guests. The success which it achieved was sufficient to stir the composer into a rare fit of industry and induce him to score it for full orchestra. But for some reason he did not choose to publish it, and after his death it was sold by Madame Rossini to Strakosch, under whose management it was speedily brought before the public in different parts of Europe. The first public performance was at the Italiens in Paris, on February 28, 1869, with full orchestral accompaniment. April 29, 1869, it was given for the first time in this country at the Academy of Music, New York, and on the very anniversary of that occasion Mr. Thunder has introduced it to Philadelphia in a style that was creditable to the work as well as to himself. The performance of last evening was a decided success, although the solo parts, as well as the choruses, were all sustained by amateurs. The execution of the most difficult passages would have been improved if they had been entrusted to the hands of more thoroughly trained and experienced artists, but careful and conscientious study enabled each participant last evening to acquit himself or herself with much credit, and in view of the general excellence of the performance, we heartly join in the general demand for a repetition of the concert. The music of the Messe Solennelle presents a striking contrast to that of the Stabat Mater, with which one instinctively compares it; and while it is perhaps not destined to achieve the universal popularity of the latter, it exhibits the characteristics of the religious element and style in a manner much more marked, and frequently attains a dignity which is in keeping with its title and pretensions.

The City Amusements.

AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC Miss Carlotta Patti will appear on Monday and Tuesday evenings and on Wednesday afternoon as the "Queen of Night" in Mozart's opera of The Magic Fluie. Seats can now be secured at Boner's, No. 1102 Chesnut street. AT THE WALNUT the drama of The Connie

Soogah will be performed this afternoon and evening for the last times. On Monday the drama of The Fairy Circle will be produced. AT THE ARCH Mr. Craig will have his annual benefit this evening, when a great bill of attrac-tions will be offered. The performance will commence with As Like as Two Peas, which will be followed by Living Too Fast, after which Mr. Craig's new burlesque of Hamlet Naturalized will be given, and the performance will conclude with the farce of The Spectre Bridegroom. Mr. Craig is such a favorite actor that a crowded house may be considered as Governor Ashley has published a long eard in a Montana paper denying that he sought to use suborned testimony to convict Andrew Johnson, or that he had anything to do with the trial and execution of Mrs. Surratt. He closes as follows:—"No man can put his finger on a single act of my life, official or unofficial, in Congress or out of it, inconsistent with my duty as a man and a citizen."
